Turning obstacles into opportunities

All job hunters encounter obstacles that can impede a successful job search. Whether it's lack of training, insufficient experience, or fear of dealing with change, these obstacles prevent many people from landing the job they want.

According to Richard Gage, "Learning to identify what is really standing in our way is critical for an effective job search." Gage will speak on "Turning Obstacles into Opportunities" at the Town of Wilmington's Small Cities Employment Assistance Program seminar Monday, August 16 at 9 a.m. in room 9 of the Town Hall. A former systems engineer for IBM, Gage will provide a unique perspective on job hunting problems, ranging from overcoming computer phobia to conquering anxiety attacks during an interview. The seminar is free to all Wilmington residents.

The Town of Wilmington's

weekly employment seminars are a component of the Small Cities Employment Assistance Program, which also offers training grants, a job bank, career assessment, job search support groups, and referrals to other employment programs. The Town received a fiscal year 1992 grant from the Massachusetts Small Cities

Program to provide employment assistance to Wilmington residents, as well as a variety of housing-related activities. For more information about the program, contact Cathy Beyer, job developer, or Glenn Garber, Small Cities Program Director at 658-6333.

AARP will hear grandparents' rights presentation

The Wilmington Evening Chapter of AARP will meet Wednesday, Sept. 15 at the Winchester Hospital Family Health Care Center at 500 Salem Street (Rte. 62) in Wilmington.

Anne B. Linchan of Wilmington will present a program on grandparents rights. This program is only the beginning of an exciting year ahead for the chapter. The chapter looks forward to seeing everyone Sept. 15. For information, call (508) 658-2938 or (508) 658-2917.

It's YOUR Money

BY JOYCE BRISBOIS
Certified Public Accountant

SHOULD YOU RENT OUT YOUR HOUSE?

When a family buys a new home but can't sell the old one, one money saving option is to rent out the property. Think taxes first.

In order to roll over the gain on the old house to the new one, or to qualify for the once-in-a-lifetime $125,000 exclusion on gains, the old property must be sold within two years. Though the rent is taxed as income, expenses like mortgage interest, taxes, repairs and depreciation can be deducted against it. You may be able to retain the rollover and/or $125,000 exclusion beyond the two year limit if you can prove you are making a continuous and genuine effort to sell the house while it is being rented.

Some folks decide to keep the old property as a permanent rental. Tax consequences include the loss of rollover and a limit on depreciation deductions. Depreciation is figured on adjusted basis or market value, whichever is less; a low basis - likely if you bought the house a long time ago - will severely limit the value of depreciation. But if the basis and expenses are high, losses may be deductible against income. Check with your tax advisor before you make an expensive decision.

Town Pulse & Opinion

letters to the editor

The election is over... yet Mr. McCoy continues

Dear Larz:

As a candidate for re-election to the Board of Selectmen last April, I refused to respond to the weekly lies, half truths, innuendo and fiction of Mike McCoy. As a target of one of the most negative campaigns ever launched in this town, I allowed Mr. McCoy to distort the truth surrounding the town manager's contract and he successfully rode that issue to victory.

The election has been over for three and a half months, yet Mr. McCoy continues to reduce discourse and debate to juvenile name-calling, unsupportable innuendo and cold, calculated lies as was the case in his letter to the Crier last week. Mr. McCoy is free to make smarmy comments about "nice and heartwarming" columns but he is not free to distort the truth.

In the interest of full disclosure, I will tell you that if there is an open seat for the board of selectmen next year, if I can put together the organization and funding necessary to run a good campaign and if I remain in good health, I have every intention of running for that open seat. If the seat is not vacated by the incumbent, I will not run.

I would like to serve once again with Selectmen Duggan and Bruce, with whom I have maintained a cordial, professional relationship. I have, likewise, had a friendly acquaintance with Selectman Allan. It is ludicrous to insinuate that I would try to get elected to the board by offending the people I would be working with. I have not, would not and need not engage in denigrating the body on which I would like to serve. Unlike Mr. McCoy, I have respect for the board of selectmen, even those boards and members with whom I disagree.

Is the record as Mr. McCoy presents it? In perhaps the most self-aggrandizing, pompous comment I have ever read from a selectman, Mr. McCoy states that "I've done more in less than 100 days...than any other selectman has done during their tenure." As examples of these overwhelming accomplishments, he cites his motions to direct the town manager to send letters to our legislative delegation opposing changes in Proposition 2 1/2 (a position all four have publicly held for a long time), to our Congressional delegation regarding sewer bill tax deductions, and to the Department of Public Utilities asking that the Colonial Gas rate increase take effect next May.

As Walter Mondale asked in 1984, "Where's the beef?" Has no other selectman ever done more than direct the town manager to write letters that have absolutely no political effect? Does Mr. McCoy wish to include past selectmen such as Jim Miceli, Jim Banda, Wavie Drew, Rocco DePasquale and Aldo Cairra on his list of underachievers? Such a statement should be offensive to every person who has benefited by the service of community leaders such as these.

Bob Cain and Jim Stewart didn't just complain about public utilities, they did something about them by negotiating a contract that will bring millions of dollars from Reading Municipal Light to Wilmington. Has Mr. McCoy accomplished more since April than Chairman Bruce has in over four years? More than Gerry Duggan has in over a year? More than Diane Allan has in the same period? Does anyone believe that Mike McCoy's motions have yielded more results than Bob Cain's 16 years of service to Wilmington?

Leadership requires statesmanship. Mike McCoy's letter, as with his past diatribes against the likes of Dick Longo and others, contains neither statesmanship, nor honesty, nor common decency.

Sincerely,
Mark T. Haldane

Three cheers for Michael McCoy

Dear Larz:

Three cheers for Michael McCoy. He was the only one who had enough spunk to say the dog should be destroyed. I was in the same position, had to have the vet for my animal, and what did the board do? They let the people keep the vicious dog.

I wish Mike McCoy was on the board when I had trouble with the dogs. What are the other board members waiting for? A child to be attacked by these vicious dogs?

I tell you what, I am sorry all the write ups about dogs attacking and if it happens to me again someone is going to have a law suite on their hands, because the other board members are letting these people keep these dogs. Once a dog attacks and tastes blood they will do it again.

Name withheld by request

"Thank you, Wilmington Police"

Dear Larz:

I am writing to express my sincere thanks to Chief Stewart and the Wilmington Police Department for the excellent work they did in helping to locate the alleged "phantom burglar" Ramon Torres, who has been terrorizing our neighborhood for so long. Everyone was looking for him, but the dogged determination of our police appears to be the key to his apprehension. Detective Spencer was mentioned in the Globe as being a key player and I'm sure many other officers worked extra hard to find Torres. These men are a credit to the chief and to the entire force.

Mr. Torres left his fingerprints behind when he victimized our neighbor, and we believe he was the person we scared away after breaking into our cellar. Victims of criminals like him are left feeling violated and often lose items of great sentimental value, along with their sense of safety in their own homes. They are left in

We know there are other people of this type out there and are very grateful that when we needed them the police response was quick, professional and courteous. We also know that work of this type takes money that we, the taxpayers provide for our public safety departments. No one ever seems to think about police, fire or EMT service until they need them.

The extraordinary work the police did in getting this individual off the street shows how much they deserve our support as taxpayers. How can you put a price on safety and peace of mind? For victims it is worth every penny.

Security in our area has been heightened in the wake of these crimes, but all my neighbors can sleep easier knowing that due to the truly outstanding work our officers did, Mr. Torres is now where he belongs, not terrorizing the streets and homes of Wilmington. Now let's hope the court will do its job and keep him there.

Sincerely,
Charles Shay & Family

Political PAC's should be "canned"

Dear Larz:

Due to inaction by your legislators we are forced to deliver all our products, curtail most of our pickups, and close certain days.

Distributors refuse to pick up redemption centers, which puts a tremendous financial burden on us.

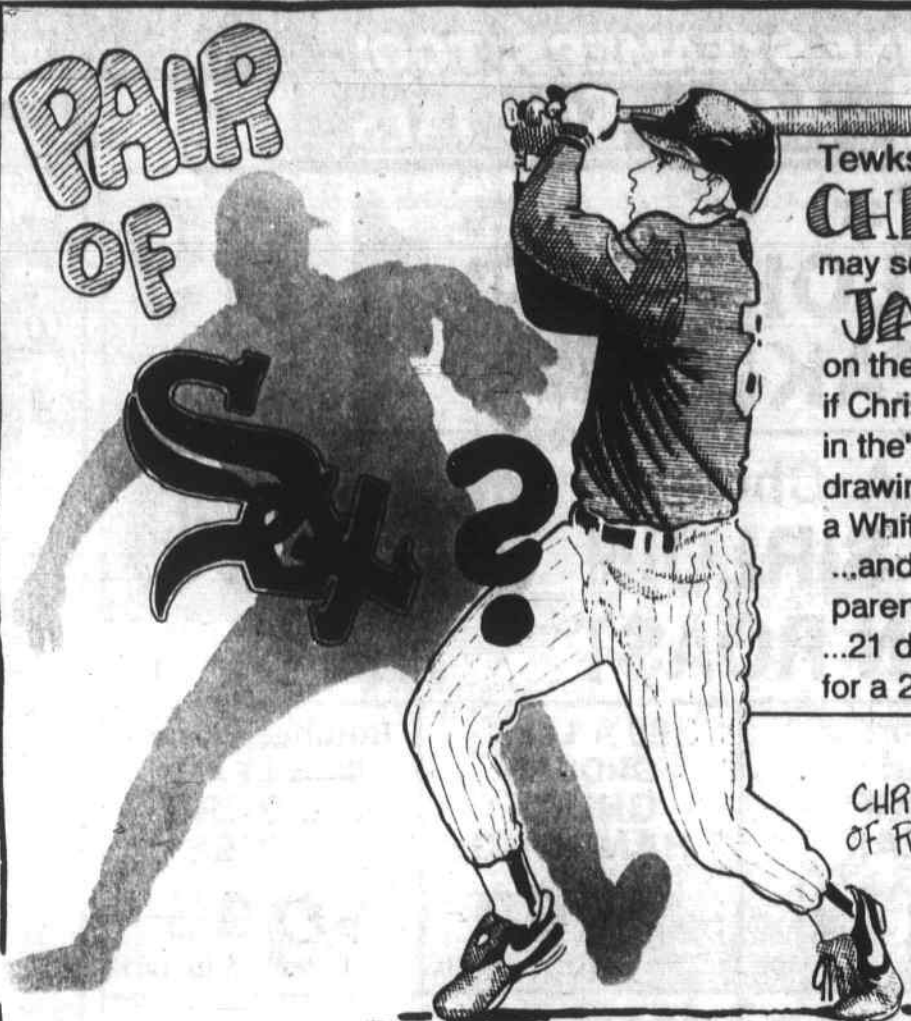

They want us out of business. For each container they do not get back is two and one quarter cents in their pocket.

In Maine, distributors must pick up what they put out. Why not here? It is called Political PAC Money or Legal Graft.

Please sign our petition. You can make a difference!

After all, legislator's PAC money comes from distributors and bottling owners.

Sincerely,
Wilmington Redemption Center

by Kevin John Sowyrda

I'll believe the recession's over when the grass stops growing through the pavement of a very empty Wilmington Ford parking lot. There was a time when the "Big W" was the landmark of Route 38, Wilmington's primary business highway. But today Ben Ristuccia's old dealership is another vivid illustration of the hard economic times and a daily reminder to Wilmington that any alleged economic upswing still has a long way to go, not only in Wilmington, but in the Merrimack Valley as well.

The town coffers are feeling the pinch since Ford's shutdown. Wilmington Town Treasurer Joe Peters explained that the owners are in arrears on property taxes for the last two years to the tune of $202,837.02. The town has a lien on the two "Big W" Main Street properties. The total of uncollected taxes for the entire town totals a whopping $900,000.

Peters said the economy is the obvious culprit, but that Wilmington still surpasses other surrounding towns in its ability to collect money for vital municipal services. "We have about a 96 percent collection rate," he said.

But collecting from bankrupt businesses can be tough going, even for an able and aggressive town treasurer. At the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, Joan O'Rourke disputes any trickle down in Wilmington from the national recovery, and said that if there is light at the end of the tunnel, it's still a good stroll to that daylight. "It's not getting worse, but the move upward is so slow you wouldn't know it," said the chamber's executive director. "Some businesses have gone under and many others are barely hanging on," she said.

O'Rourke said the economy has produced a survival of the fittest environment where local businesses are literally operating with a one-day-at-a-time mentality. "We're barely moving, and this seems to be the third year of just hanging on."

But, every storm cloud has a silver lining, and this one is no exception. O'Rourke said the recession has sparked a new entrepreneurial spirit, and that many displaced workers, discouraged by a near empty job market, are starting their own businesses from scratch and joining the chamber as new members who are on a mission to beat the hard times. Chamber Membership is up by about 80 men and women.

But all the news is not dark and dreary. In the local real estate market, one of Wilmington's leading brokers reports a near explosion in sales and a reconfigured market that's producing satisfied buyers and sellers. "We've had one very solid year that shows things are turning around," said Sharon Kelley, president of Kelley and Kompany. Kelley said that if priced right, both new and pre-owned properties are moving, and that her firm quickly sold out at the new phase one construction at Chestnut Estates.

Kelley painfully remembers the time not too long ago when the Wilmington landscape was blanketed with 'for sale' signs and residential property would remain on the market without buyers for months on end. Today that's not happening. "Buyers are thrilled with the interest rates and sellers, if the price is right, can move the property," said Kelley. Kelley said this has produced a new "equal market" where for the first time in years both buyers and sellers of real estate are "walking away mutually happy for a change."

Though possibly in the minority with Kelley, another smiling business owner is Fred Cain, Sr. While the northern end of Route 38 has seen the death of an auto giant, the southern tip finds Cain's Plymouth-Chrysler riding a steady increase.

Cain said "business is up" and that his dealership just placed number five for sales for the twenty Chrysler dealerships in the Metro Boston region, up from number eighteen for sales two years ago. "And we're shooting for number one," said Cain, with a level of enthusiasm that must be the envy of most other local merchants.

Zeneca thanks Wilmington, and area emergency teams

Dear Larz:

All of us at Zeneca Resins would like to express our gratitude to all the various agencies who handled a minor incident at our plant this past Friday, August 6, in a most professional manner.

Early Friday morning, Zeneca Resins' plant personnel observed some fumes coming from a storage building. Almost simultaneously, the plant's alarm system sounded, automatically calling the Wilmington Fire Department to the site. As a precautionary measure, the seven operators in the plant at the time of the incident were taken to a local hospital for tests and observation. Six were shortly released. The seventh person was admitted for further observation and then released on Saturday with no injuries.

The company offices and plant were evacuated for a short time and the local authorities determined that there was no need for any additional evacuation. A portion of Main Street (Route 38) was closed because the Fire Department was using firehoses to supplement the plant emergency fire system and these hoses crossed that highway.

Physical damage to the plant was limited to the freezer containing approximately 400 pounds of peroxide chemicals involved in the incident. The situation was quickly brought under control and is now being thoroughly investigated.

The response of the Wilmington Fire Department, Police Department, the regional HazMat Team and mutual aid from the surrounding communities and assisted by the plant's emergency response team was quick, effective and efficient. The professional nature of these units clearly reflected their extensive training and experience.

We should all take great comfort in knowing that these community emergency response capabilities rank with the best available people involved for their quick response and professionalism.

On behalf of Zeneca Resins, I would like to again thank all those

Sincerely,
Robert A. Krueger

Quitters in Motion offered by Winchester Hospital

Even with a lot of encouragement from family and friends, sometimes it's difficult to break the cycle of smoking addiction. "Quitters in Motion," offered by Winchester Hospital, is an ongoing support group for those who have quit or are trying to quit smoking. For many, smoking is a way to ease stress, anxiety and frustration or limit a craving for food. Quitters in Motion addresses these emotions and helps participants find ways to replace smoking with more positive behaviors.

Quitters in Motion may be used in conjunction with the nicotine patch as a patch advantage program. The group will meet from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesdays at the Winchester Hospital Health Promotion Center, and costs $7 at the door. For more information call (617) 932-8200.

EARLY CHILDHOOD CENTER
1503 Andover Street, Tewksbury, MA 01876
(508) 851-3220

Learning is something children do... while they're having fun! That's the philosophy of the L'il Red Schoolhouse and, at this school, the children have lots of fun!

At the L'il Red Schoolhouse, each child receives close, personal attention. Teachers and staff believe that it is important to be aware of the pressures, changes, and challenges in each child's life... in and away from school. At school, the physical, social, emotional, intellectual and aesthetic development of every child is encouraged.

This early childhood center enrolls toddlers, nursery, full day, extended day, and school age children in various programs covering ages 15 months to 14 years.

In the summer, the Summer Explorer's Camp is available for children ages 6 to 14 years. This year's theme is "Saving the Earth's Environment." The children will learn about the Rainforests, Deserts, and Atmosphere/Space. Students aged 12-14 can participate in a "Counselor in Training" program which enables them to help plan or run activities with the younger children.

The L'il Red Schoolhouse is located at 1503 Andover Street, Tewksbury. For more information, call Executive Director Alice Juchnevics-Kontos at (508) 851-3220.

Wilmington water problems detailed

by Jeff Nazzaro

The Wilmington Board of Water and Sewer Commissioners met for a general meeting Thursday in front of a large and interested audience, including WCTV, Selectmen Gerald Duggan and Robert Cain, DPW Superintendent Bob Palmer, Town Manager Michael Caira and Assistant Town Manager Jeffrey Hull.

The board met for over three and one-half hours, prompting Duggan to remark that the water and sewer commissioners are "catching up to [the board of selectmen]. We meet for five hours."

The meeting was highlighted by a comprehensive report from Water and Sewer Superintendent Paul Niman detailing the chronology of the water emergency from June 18 to July 2 of this year. From June 22 until July 6 Caira was on vacation, of which Cain quipped "would that be enough to cause a fluctuation of water pressure?"

Niman's seven page report includes conclusions and recommendations related to the water department's handling of the crisis and any internal or other investigations into the matter.

The following includes a summation of Niman's report to the board of water and sewer commissioners. Some facts have been added. Quotes should be attributed to Superintendent Paul Niman unless otherwise noted.

• Friday, June 18.

1:30 PM: Water and sewer department receives complaint from Analog Devices on Woburn Street regarding low water pressure. Department concludes the problem is due to the "Eames Street Bridge being out." A second call from Analog Devices is received by Caira. Analog Devices reports they may have to shutdown due to low pressure. Problem is linked to "a combination of factors, including the Eames Street Bridge and low tank levels due to recent replacement of the granular activated carbon (GAC) at the Sargeant water treatment plant (WTP)."

• Monday, June 21.

10:00 AM: Series of gate valves along Lowell Street closed in an attempt to increase pressure in the Woburn Street area. Ten pounds per square inch (psi) improvement noted.

Salem Street well taken off line for cleaning, a ten day process. Attempted start of Shawshen Pumping Station motor fails.

Ballardvale tank measures 273.6 at end of day.

• Tuesday, June 22.

Shawshen Pumping Station repaired. Ballardvale tank measures 277.5 at end of day.

• Wednesday, June 23.

Department seeks resoluting of Eames Street Bridge problem. High water demand due to heat slows recovery process.

Ballardvale tank measures 278.0 at end of day.

• Thursday, June 24.

8:30 AM: Niman, Hull, Palmer and Fire Chief Dan Stewart meet to discuss "Woburn Street pressure situation."

6:00 PM: Water and sewer commission meets "to discuss MWRA issues with the board of selectmen."

Ballardvale tank shows drop to 270.0, attributed to high demands due to heat.

• Friday, June 25.

Niman, Hull, Palmer and Stewart meet to review a possible connection to the Woburn water supply. Duggan and Selectman Diane Allan attend.

11:00 AM: Shawshen Pumping Station shutdown.

1:15 PM: Residents from the Shawshen Avenue area to the Billerica line complain of "no water." Palmer pulls entire "DPW workforce off jobs to stand-by if needed for an emergency."

Gate valve at Shawshen Avenue closed either "accidentally or intentionally."

3:00 PM: Niman, Hull, Palmer and Stewart meet at Woburn Street to set up alternative plan in case of fire.

9:00 PM: Tanks continue to drop. Hull, Niman and Palmer deem a "voluntary emergency water ban due to the low tank levels and high demand" necessary.

10:00 PM: Hydrant and water connection to Woburn "complete and active."

11:00 PM: Connection made to Burlington water supply.

Ballardvale tank measures 262.0 at end of day.

• Saturday, June 26.

Treatment plant operator Mark Wagstaff reports small tank recoveries to Niman. Shawshen Pumping Station test results come back positive for bacteria. Chlorine added and station re-tested. DEP concurs. Ballardvale tank measures 257.8 at end of day.

• Sunday, June 27.

No recovery reported in tanks. Shawshen Pumping Station placed on-line after bacteria tests returned negative from Burlington Water Department.

1,000-1,200 gallon per minute (gpm) leak detected from overflow of Industrial Way Booster Pumping Station. Feed to station shutdown for repairs. A second Burlington water connection is made. Water pumped from both plants, both Burlington connections and from Shawshen Pumping Station in effort to replenish Ballardvale tank. Nassau and Hillside Way tanks taken off-line. Ballardvale tank measures 261.5 at end of day.

• Monday, June 28.

Ballardvale tank shows steady overnight progress. Niman notifies all department personnel about "possible tampering with [water department] facilities." "Hard" connection (6 inch line of metal piping replaces 4" fire hose line) to Woburn made for emergencies. Ballardvale tank measures 269.9 at end of day.

• Tuesday, June 29.

7:30 AM: Two water breaks reported.

10:00 AM: 100 gpm leak repaired on Hobson Avenue.

12:30 PM: 50 gpm leak repaired on Corey Avenue.

"One or both" valve gates feeding Shawshen Avenue area "proved conclusively" to have been closed on June 25.

Ballardvale tank measures 280.1 at end of day.

• Wednesday, June 30.

3:00 AM: Niman told by acting Water Department Foreman Mark Smith of "major break estimated at 750 gpm on the 10 inch main on Main Street near D&D Lock."

3:30 PM: Main Street break repairs finished. Break due to "pipe sitting on a ledge outcrop." Ballardvale tank measures 281.6 at end of day.

• Thursday, July 1.

Salem Street well placed back on-line after cleaning. Hillside Way and Nassau Avenue tanks placed back on-line. Shawshen Pumping Station left on-line to "insure the tanks were full for the July 4th weekend."

5:30 PM: Water and sewer commission meets in special session. Hull, Police Chief Bobby Stewart, Diane Allan and Chairman of the Board of Selectmen Chester Bruce attend. Niman directed to prepare chronology of events regarding emergency. Commission votes to go into Executive Session to discuss on-going investigation with Hull and Stewart. Allan and Bruce excluded.

Ballardvale tank measures 287.0 at end of day.

• Friday, July 2.

"Water system was returned completely to normal operation." Shawshen Pumping Station taken off-line. Ballardvale tank measures 292.0 at end of day.

• Wednesday, July 7.

Shawshen pumping station placed back on-line.

• Friday, July 9.

Shawshen pumping station taken off-line. 900,000 gallons of water pumped between June 7 and 9 into supply.

Board of selectmen holds "special meeting" to request operational, financial and personnel records from the water and sewer commission through Caira.

• Thursday, July 22.

The Town Crier receives anonymous call from woman claiming to live in Shawshen area complaining of contaminated water. Niman and Palmer maintain water supply is safe; no other known problems reported.

• Thursday, July 30.

Niman presents report on water emergency to water and sewer commission, reaching multiple conclusions about the cause of low water pressure at Woburn Street; Niman pinpoints problems of June 25-27 as most serious, but does not comment due to on-going police investigation into matter. Niman expresses concern over "individuals outside of the [water] department" questioning their handling of the emergency. States he would "welcome [an independent review from the water and sewer commission] and cooperate fully with it."

Water and sewer commission expresses satisfaction with the department's handling of the emergency.

All Around Travel Update

FLYING WITH FLUFFY

If you want to take an airplane trip but can't bear the thought of leaving the family pet behind, don't despair. Airlines these days will do everything they can to make sure you and your pet have a safe, comfortable ride. You must provide a current veterinary certificate that shows your animal is in good health and has all necessary shots. Also, administering a sedative just before departure is often advisable. Animals must travel in regulation airline carriers, and the cost of their transportation is determined by weight. Airline personnel are watchful of emergencies or delays that might affect animals, and are sensitive to specific handling instructions attached to carriers.

Discover the difference a professional travel agent like ALL AROUND TRAVEL can make in your next travel plans. Questions about taking the family pet along on vacation? Just ask! Can't decide where to go? We'll help. Our staff is well traveled and can help with all the details that will make the difference between a good time and a lasting experience. We always go the extra mile for you here at 203 Jefferson Rd., N. Wilmington (Rt. 62), where we're waiting to discuss your travel plans Mon-Fri 9-5 and after house by appointment (658-2313).

HINT: Airlines can carry only limited numbers of animals per flight, so be sure to book in advance.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

by Edward H. Wilkens

PREVENT CHILD BURNS

QUESTION: How can a house be made safer from the tragedy of accidental child burns?

ANSWER: Make certain that matches and lighters are kept out of reach of youngsters. Similarly, young children should be kept away from kitchen stoves, heaters and fireplaces. Never leave a toddler alone in the kitchen where he or she might be tempted to turn on the stove or in the living room when there is a fire in the fireplace.

Always turn pot handles inward to prevent children from pulling scalding liquid down on themselves. You can usually educate children by age two, but you still have to do a lot of protecting as well.

A benefit for mind and body

"It changed my life." That's how Tom Adams characterizes the impact of Tai Chi, a 1500 year old form of martial arts that originated in China. Once the owner of a successful financial planning business in the Midwest, today Tom lives in New Hampshire and teaches Tai Chi on a full time basis. And starting September 20 on Monday and Wednesday evenings, he will teach a five week course at the Winchester Hospital Family Medical Center in Wilmington.

The Chinese word Chi means "life energy," and Tai Chi (pronounced tie chee) helps its students tap into that energy through what has been called "meditation in motion."

"Tai Chi emphasizes control, graceful movement, focused breathing, coordination," explains Adams. "It takes a great deal of mental focus."

"As a result, it is most popular with adults and seniors because it's slower and requires more concentration," he adds.

Adams says that Tai Chi can yield a great many physical benefits but that "it's much more cerebral. You're challenged mentally all the time - it's a great way to relieve stress."

Frieda Palazzo agrees. This 62 year old from Revere has been one of Adams' Tai Chi students for the past seven months.

"I am under a lot of stress," she says. "I began looking for things to do to alleviate it; I got into meditation about four years ago."

"Then I heard about Tai Chi," she continues. "I heard that it really helps your body and mind, and it does. It really teaches you about balancing things in your life."

"It requires slow movement, so it's something anyone at any age can do," Palazzo adds. "It's a great revention for arthritis because it touches on all parts of the body - older citizens don't know what they're missing!"

When asked about the uniqueness of a community hospital offering a 500 year old Chinese martial arts class as part of its health education program, Adams comments:

It's noteworthy that a medical institution is offering this program.

It's an acknowledgement of the benefits of the martial arts which follow an eastern philosophy of treating the mind and body as one. People are becoming more aware of the benefits of this approach."

For each person who undertakes Tai Chi, the benefits are different. Adams explains, but he believes everyone who participates in the program will benefit.

"For each individual, it's different. There can be physical benefits in improving lung capacity through correct breathing, better circulation, loosening joints to help with arthritis or bursitis, strengthening the back, legs or shoulders," says Adams.

"Students also find they're better able to balance themselves mentally and physically and deal with the stresses of life," he notes. "They find they can focus their concentration on achieving goals in their life whether it's working more effectively, improving their relationships or even committing themselves to a hobby."

"Tai Chi is not something to master in a month, but you can benefit from it in a month," he adds. "And practicing just twice a week you will see benefits." He adds, "Tai Chi teaches you discipline, focus and determination. What I put into it, I get back 10 fold."

For more information about the Tai Chi program at the Winchester Hospital Family Medical Center, Call (617) 756-2220.

MCC offers software technical writing course

While the region's high tech industry continues to contend with a sluggish economy, the outlook for growth in the software industry remains optimistic. The experiences of graduates of the Software Technical Writing Program at Middlesex Community College (MCC) support that forecast. The program, which began in 1981 as a cooperative effort among industry, academia and government to retrain adults to become systems software technical writers, continues to be a strong force in the preparation of technical writers both locally and nationally.

The MCC program is an intensive, eight month course which incorporates technical writing and fundamentals of computer programming with management skills and a word processing module. Candidates are career changers holding bachelor's, master's and in some cases, Ph.D. degrees in many fields. The program does not require previous technical experience.

A strong relationship with an industry based advisory board allows the program to keep pace with the training requirements of a changing market. "The program really does open doors for our graduates," reports Caryl Dundorf, program manager and associate dean at Middlesex. That sentiment was echoed by many recent graduates.

The next cycle of the program begins in September. An information session will be held at the college's Bedford Campus, Springs Road in the campus center Tues., Aug. 17 at 7 p.m. Interested candidates will have an opportunity to speak with faculty members, graduates and members of the advisory board. For more information, call 617-280-3661.

WCTV to present festival Aug 16 - 21

August 16-21 has been proclaimed WCTV Week. WCTV is a private, non-profit organization depending entirely upon volunteers to make cable access in Wilmington what it is today.

The station has scheduled a week's worth of programming specifically to highlight the different functions of WCTV in the community.

The schedule of activities that will follow this is the result of several months of hard work and careful planning.

Monday, August 16: This day is dedicated to education, and there will be programs running during the course of the day on all three stations specifically dealing with educational issues. At 7 p.m., Sandra Curtin will be producing a live program, concerning students involved at WCTV. The title of this program will be "Kids Behind the Camera."

Tuesday August 17: 7 p.m. Anne Linchan's show "Talk a Bout" will be live, and she will be discussing WCTV's role in the community. Joining her will be guests Mike Niestepski, Charlie Gilbert, Susan Koufagazos (all former presidents of WCTV), current president Philip A. Nowlan, and General Manager Sam Schauerman. This will be followed by a program produced by "Disaster" Don Leard starting at 8:30, dealing with public safety issues. Fire Chief Dan Stewart will be there answering phone in questions from a pre-recorded session.

Wednesday, August 18, 8 p.m.: Steve Sabounjian has produced a governmental program hosted by J.T. Turner, with guests Mike Cairra (town manager), and Chet Bruce (chairman of the board of selectmen). The contents of this program will deal specifically with issues that affect Wilmington.

Thursday, August 19, 7:30 p.m.: Jim Lyon is producing a program on fraternal organizations which are currently involved in serving the community.

Saturday, August 21, noon: to 10 p.m., WCTV is presenting its first ever Festival on the Common. This is a small sample of people and organizations that WCTV has showcased over the past year. During the course of the day, there will be live music performances by Emanon as well as several performers from Glen TV. Fabulous Franco of Foodaramaland fame will be cooking up some surprise dishes from 1 to 1:30 p.m. There will be volleyball as well as food and ice cream available. The fire department will have a hook and ladder truck on display.

During the course of the day the staff of WCTV will be giving tours of the station (which is conveniently located across the street from the common in the basement of the Swain school).

The Salvation Army, in conjunction with WCTV, will have a trailer on the common to receive donations for the flood victims of the midwest. They need bottled water, canned goods, and cleaning supplies. All of your generous donations will be gratefully accepted. The station will be producing a video of messages that the donors can give to the flood victims. This tape will be sent along with the donations so that the recipients can see the faces of the people here who care enough to help. The Salvation Army will be accepting donations from noon until 7 p.m. Saturday.

Last but not least, as night falls on the festival, WCTV has prepared a wide screen video presentation to be shown on the common. This will include not only promotional clips, but entertainment programming made by volunteer producers at WCTV. Included will be the infamous "House that Ate Souls" and "The House that Ate Souls is Still Hungry."

Robert O'Byck

Robert O'Byck is the Medicare Beneficiary Education Coordinator at Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Mass. He is responsible for responding to the needs of Medicare beneficiaries.

Mr. O'Byck will address seniors at the Council meeting of Tues., Aug. 17 beginning at 2:30. He will speak on the changes in Medicare and Medigap insurances, Part B monthly premium, deductibles and coinsurances; physicians payment reform, Federal cap on balance billing, Medex rates and benefits, mandatory claims by physicians and supplier routine mammography and pap smear benefits; mail order prescription drugs, HMO blue, basic benefits under Medicare. He will also answer as many questions as time will allow.

Mr. O'Byck speaks at the center only once a year, therefore seniors who have questions are urged to attend this meeting. Mr. O'Byck will be aware of changes we may be facing in 1994.

The commissioner's monthly meeting will be held before Mr. O'Byck makes his remarks.

Medicare, Medicaid

There seems to be a mixup of the words Medicare and Medicaid. There is a big difference between them. It is unfortunate that so many seniors get confused, but the words sound a lot alike.

Medicare is the Federal health insurance program that is tied to the Social Security program. It is divided into two parts, A and B or to put it differently, part A is the hospital coverage and part B the doctors' coverage. Eighty percent of part A or the hospital bills is paid by a portion of Social Security taxes and other taxes paid while a person is working. The part B or doctors bills are paid through the monthly premium of those who have enrolled in part B when they sign up for Medicare. Usually supplemental policies such as Medex will cover the remaining 20 percent of the bills.

Medicaid is a health care program that is tied to a persons economic circumstances. That is, if you have a low income and few assets. Medicaid is financed through general tax revenue not through Social Security taxes. To apply for Medicaid you should contact the Department of Public Welfare in Woburn.

By getting mixed up on these words, one could cause a billing department a little problem if you say you are on Medicaid when you are on Medicare. Some seniors think that Part B is Medicaid, as you can see above, it is not.

When you have to go to the hospital or doctor, given them your Medicare card that will tell the provider that you are covered under Medicare A and B. If you are on Medicaid you will have to give the provider both your Medicare and Medicaid cards. Why, the state will bill your Medicare for the 80 percent and the State will pay the 20 percent of your bill.

Offense sparks Wilmington

Wilmington's nine and 10-year-old summer baseball team, sponsored by Town Market Cigo, began the second round of the Bay State Tournament recently with solid results. Wilmington played July 31 and trounced Weston, 16-1 with the game called on the 12-run mercy rule.

Wilmington was led by the strong pitching of Derek McClaren, who pitched three innings and had seven strikeouts while allowing one run.

Joe Burns pitched two innings and had four strikeouts. Wilmington's offensive charge was led by Timmy Riley with three hits; Brian Roberts with a triple and two runs batted in; Kevin Forgett with two hits and three runs batted in and Scott Buck's two hits and two runs batted in.

Also making fine defensive plays were Eric Swiezynski at firstbase and Kyle Burns at second.

Wilmington's second game was played at Rotary Park August 2 vs. Dracut. Wilmington played tough for five innings and had an 8-5 lead going into the sixth inning. In the sixth, Wilmington's defense fell apart and allowed six runs and could not rally on offense to get the runs back as they lost, 11-8.

Joseph Burns and Scott Buck both had RBI hits in this game. Tim Riley and Eric Swiezynski ripped triples, while Sean Cannon pounded a double.

Wilmington had a rematch with Dracut August 4 and played great defensively in a 7-2 victory. Derek McClaren pitched four solid innings, striking out five and giving up only three hits. Tim Riley hit the ball well, as he went three for three and Kevin Forgett went two for three to lead the way. Defensively, Joseph Burns and Kyle Burns played well.

Walsh earns coach's award

According to coach Ed Lyons, All-American Mike Walsh of Wilmington has earned the Coach's Award for his contributions to the Bentley College track team.

Walsh added better than 15 feet to the school record in the discus, boosting it from 167'2" (which he set last year) to 182'11" with a winning throw at the ICAAAA

Championships. In addition to bettering the school standard in the discus five times, he also broke both the indoor and outdoor school records in the shotput.

Walsh, a graduate of Malden High School, finished fourth in the discus at the NCAA Division II Track Championships to earn All-American honors.

Stelio's blasts Lions Club

by James Pote
Stelio's beats up on Lions Club

Stelio's jumped out to a 7-0 lead after the top half of the first inning that included Ray Velardo's three-run inside the park homerun.

In the second, Velardo smacked another two-run inside the park homerun to extend the lead to 9-3.

Stelio's scored two runs in each of the next three innings that was helped by Eddie Fitzpatrick and Bob Surran, who both contributed with four hits as Stelio's demolished the Lions, 20-10.

Three Sons Contracting 20 Shea's Concrete 0

Three Sons continued to beat up on the other teams, as they were all over the last place Shea's Concrete.

Mark Blaisdell, Steve Brander, John Smith and Bobby Noel each had three hits in this slugfest.

Chris Hinxman and Steve Brander combined on the two-hit shutout.

Lions Club 18 Rocco's 9

The Lions' Club exploded with their season high 18 runs against the inconsistent Rocco's.

Bill Kent had a big game for the Lions as he contributed three hits and three RBIs.

Mike Winn, Tom Pazyra and Dennis Savosik each had two hits to help Kent and the Lions take another one. Chucky Duggan had a big game for the losing effort as he hit a big three run homerun.

Charlie's Autobody 8 McTire 7

In the battle of the second place teams, Charlie's overcame the attacks made by McTire.

In the second inning, Charlie's took the early 3-0 lead thanks to Dave Newhouse's two-run double.

But Bob Dolan put McTire on the scoreboard with his two-run single to tie it up at three apiece.

McTire had a one run lead until Newhouse drove in Jimmy Hatchey after Hatchey hit the gap with a three bagger.

In the sixth, Charlie's ripped four runs which included RBI hits from Bobby Kelly, Eddie Poste and a sacrifice fly by Peter Brown to take the 8-4 lead.

McTire was not dead yet, as they put another scare into Charlie's with three runs to make it a one run game. Mark Peters, Mark Reed and Dana Gilardi all had RBI singles to make it a one run lead.

That score held up, as McTire stranded two runners in the bottom of the seventh.

Rec. Dept. notes

Water Day sparks playground excitement

There was a flood of excitement at the Wilmington Recreation Department playground last week beginning with Tuesday's Water Day.

A frantic struggle developed between two teams who were competing in the under/over water balloon relay. Team two was victorious, leaving team one soaked to the bone. The members of team one were not the only wet playgrounders, however, because the balloon toss left everyone except Andrew Campbell and Lindsay Bruno drenched to the bone.

Wednesday's Star Search Talent Showcase brought out a multitude of talented playgrounders. A group of comedians amused everyone with a J.C. Penney skit, while a second group of young comedians had their fun with their own rendition of "Wanna Buy Some Brains?"

The playgrounders were awed by a death defying bike stunt performed by Jonathan Robarge. Later in the show, Tyler Carlson, Colleen Campbell and Lindsay Bruno danced and sang to the childhood favorite "Ain't it Great to be Crazy?" More musical talent was displayed by Daniel Siracusa, who received applause for his rendition of David Lee Roth's "Just a Gigolo." Danielle Irwin and Janessa Mutchler did a great job with everyone's favorite cheer "Firecracker, Firecracker!" The playgrounders even witnessed some athletic talent as they watched Sean Layton and Jimmy Jordan perform basketball tricks.

More athletic talent was displayed Wednesday, as teams competed in the playground's annual hockey tournament. After a hot and sweaty struggle, team two rose to victory.

Team members Selim Fernandez, Joey Fogg, Ryan Layton, Kevin Riley, Danny Wandell, Courtney Holden, Josh Michaud, Craig Irwin, Billy Cavanaugh and David Velard were proud smiles for the rest of the day.

With all that activity last week, the playground leaders had a lot of work on their hands. The Playgrounders of the Week, Jessica Beek and Kate Jackson, did a wonderful job cleaning up and keeping everyone smiling while the Volunteers of the Week, Kristen Bruno and Michael Cairra, kept things running smoothly. The leaders would like to express their deepest thanks for a job well done.

Tiny tots

The children in the Tiny Tots program had another busy week. Among the highlights were the making of refrigerator magnets as well as performing magnetic experiments, preparing delicious s'mores and going on a hike using their handmade binoculars, participating in a dancing/exercising program compliments of Mrs. King, whose granddaughter is a tiny tot and attending a wonderful performance of the "Three Little Pigs" at the North Shore Music Theater. The children also bent "bonkers" with Barney and Baby Bop creating Barney puppets, and on Huff and Puff Day, made hot air balloons.

As this summer's program draws to an end, the children and their families are looking forward to Family Night, August 11, featuring singer David Polansky.

Camp Wildwood

The last two weeks of camp were a smashing finale to a fantastic summer. Wednesday, July 28, the camp spent a fun-filled day at Silver Lake. Friday, July 30, a field trip to Franklin Park Zoo was another fun time.

The highlights of the last week were many. Big Bob Hill made a whiffle ball appearance and the Raytheon slugger promptly awed the crowd by launching a towering homerun that was easily the longest of the season. On Tuesday the Superstars athletic event was held at the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks, and the Camp Wildwood athletes finished an admirable third.

Thursday, Aug. 5, the Wilmington Public Building Chapter (The best friends Camp Wildwood has) sponsored a day at Canobie Lake Park followed by a complete cookout and purchased presents for the campers. This event is always the highlight of the summer.

Special thanks should be given to the following, without whose help Camp '93 would not have been anywhere near the success that it was. Ron Swasey and Kerri Feyler of the Rec Office were of unmeasurable help. The Wilmington Public Buildings Chapter, with particular mention of Dennis Suprenant and Ron McCoy, who provided the greatest day of the summer.

For many of the campers, this is the only time they were able to go to Canobie Lake. Mac's Dairy Farm, Lobster Claw, the Wheelock and Hillson families, Bob Arsenault at the Wildwood School and Ametek Aerospace Products Inc. were all extremely helpful and made camp a fun place to be all summer.

Discounts are available for many Florida attractions, including Magic Kingdom, Busch Gardens, Universal Studios, and Wet 'n Wild. Discounts are also available for the popular parks like Riverside, Canobie Lake Park, Six Flags and Hershey Park. Stop by the Recreation Office Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Frog weapons for bass fishing

by Bill Conlon

Bass fishing comes in two sorts. You can fish with artificial lures or you can fish with live bait. There are arguments for and against both philosophies, but there's one truly majestic bait for bassin' around.

Artificial lures, so the story goes, are more sporting and humane than live bait. You need genuine skill to catch fish with a piece of plastic and a hook, which is sporting, and the theory says that fish are too stupid to pass up live bait. Well, maybe.

Also, live bait is swallowed more deeply and quickly, so you're more likely to gullet-hook your quarry, perhaps fatally, by offering them real food. Live bait is used often by people fishing for the skillet, not for fun. If you really, truly want to catch fish, live bait is king.

I never eat bass, because I don't like the taste, and I'd rather let that Big One get even bigger for our next battle. I play pure catch-and-release while bass fishing and I use artificial lures almost exclusively for bass.

Well, almost. There is one live bait that I use for bass fishing in the summer because it's pure poison on lunker, monster bass. Incredible.

Frogs. Live frogs. For bait. There's a body of water out in Dunstable, off the main road, that is primordial. It's known officially as Lower Massapoag, but I lovingly call it The Swamp.

The Swamp is reached by putting in on Salmon Brook, then heading upstream, crossing a beaver dam on the way by lugging the boat over to reach The Swamp. Then it's weird. You feel like history hasn't started yet, in The Swamp.

The Swamp has acres of weeds, with a few patches of open water. There are water birds of all kinds, and mosquitoes of Biblical ferocity. What a place!

There are fish in The Swamp, and all of them have scars from earlier run-ins with predators. I've taken a few minor bass during the day in The Swamp, and an occasional huge pickerel, but big bass are scarce.

Well, not quite. I found them not long ago. We were bass fishing by moonlight, with frogs, and monster bass were hitting with gusto.

The Swamp is so thick, so weedy, that you have to drop your offering right onto a fish's head to grab his attention. Pickerel hang between the lily pads, watching for lunch to swim by, so they're relatively easy. But bass hang deep in the weedbeds during the day, making them tough.

At night, however, the bass come up to the surface to hunt, and there is nothing that will tempt a bass like a live frog, bobbing on the surface completely unaware of what lurks below.

I hope to be sliding through the black waters this Wednesday night, with a half moon and a shower of meteors to light my way.

And on the seat beside me will be a bucket of live frogs.

The state allows you to catch and use green frogs and bullfrogs for bait, up to 2 1/2 inches nose to vent. Leopard frogs, which are breeding now and hopping all over the place, are a no-no. Greens and bulls only. You can have 10 frogs in possession per day, and they can't be sold.

Catching frogs for bait is fun, but it isn't dignified. You'll have to get wet and dirty catching them, as any kid can tell you. Fine. I know of a little frog pond that is hopping with life, and I'll be visiting there just as soon as this is written, with the goal of filling the bait bucket.

My tactic for using frogs is to run a small hook up through their jaws. Some old-timers hook 'em through the thigh, claiming it keeps them alive longer, but I believe that a jaw hooking provides the frog a more natural motion after it expires. The frog will still go head-first through the water, you see.

I use a small hook, to keep from tiring the frog out too quickly, and no leader or snap is needed because bass don't have sufficient teeth to bite through monofil. No sinkers, naturally.

Then I just flip the frog toward a patch of weeds, and sit back to hear the Red Sox beat the Yankees and wait for the explosion. Mister Frog does all the work, until it tires out, but hopefully it won't have time to die of exhaustion and drowning.

Fishing in The Swamp after dark, using live frogs for bait, I've had surface hits of unbelievable fury. Ka-BLOOSH!! It sounded just like cinder blocks falling into the water. Incredible. Those huge bass blasted the frogs out of existence.

But, the bass have all the edges in The Swamp. They have weeds and logs to wrap around and break off the line, so this trip I'll use heavy line, at least 15-pound test, so I can muscle the bass out of the weeds.

I'll bring the camera in case I get some good ones, but there's a patch of living room wall that I've been saving for 10 years now, waiting for a bass of at least eight pounds.

With live frogs, at night, in The Swamp, I might just fill that patch of wall this week. Here goes!

— Tackle Box —

Several off-duty Tewksbury cops on Tuesday were headed to sea, for the department's annual deep-sea fishing trip. Rumor has it that a certain lieutenant agreed to a $20 bet with a certain patrolman over who would take the biggest fish of the day. But what if somebody else takes the biggest one? I'll report back next week, if they're willing to discuss in with the press. (If not for the Tuesday workload, I'd have been taking pictures, between my own attempts at the $20, naturally.)

Tewksbury Rod & Gun basic hunter course

Massachusetts Hunter Education Instructor George Rost Jr. will hold a Basic Hunter Education Course at the Tewksbury Rod & Gun Club, 79 Chandler Street. This course is free to the general public. Students must attend every session and can register at the first class.

Instruction will take place September 2, 9, 16, 23, 30, Oct. 7 and 14. Classes will run from 7 until 9 p.m. Adults, as well as younger men and women, are encouraged to attend.

A State Hunter Education certificate is provided to course graduates 14 years or older. Youngsters, ages 10 to 14, may participate and request a "Letter of Completion" to meet out of state licensing requirements. Parental permission is required of all students under 18 years of age.

Each year state instructors and Mass. Environmental Police hold over 100 hunter education courses throughout the state. The state certificate issued at these classes serves two legal purposes. First, this card allows young men and women between 15 and 18 years old to hunt alone on their first Mass. hunting license. Secondly, the certificate is frequently necessary for either adults or minors to purchase a hunting license from other U.S. states and Canadian provinces. All states in the northeast have such requirements, except for Massachusetts. Many experienced hunters participate to qualify for out of state licenses.

For additional information on courses, write Hunter Education, P.O. Box 408, Westminster, MA 01473 or call the program office at (508) 792-7434.

letter to the editor

"...facts are being distorted..."

Dear Larz

As a member of the fourth estate, I am disappointed you would recommend to anyone not to exercise their first amendment rights. I will continue to follow my conscience and raise questions whenever the integrity of the school administration and students is being sullied to advance a school board member's personal agenda.

It is a fact that information from a confidential report given only to the school committee was leaked to the media...again. I stated at the last board meeting that I felt this was a disgrace and was disturbed that no member of the committee, especially the chairman, had any comment. Once again, facts are being distorted by a member(s) of the board in a tiresome, relentless effort to discredit the athletic department and its director. When will it end?

The Lion's Club fundraiser as I understand it was not put together just so WHS athletes could work off their sports waivers. It was a very worthwhile fundraiser open to all Wilmington residents. The Athletic Director had urged all WHS athletes, not just waived athletes, to participate in it; unfortunately, few of them did. Beyond the A.D.'s request however, what were his options? If the school committee wants to force students to perform community service in return for waived sports fees, then let them set the policy. It is certainly not in the authority of the administration to do that.

And what of the waived students who've been targeted by the school committee? Should they be required to perform community service when others aren't, based solely on the fact that their families are having financial difficulties? I believe all kids should perform some community service whenever they get the chance, but to single out for criticism a select group of students like this is very unfair.

Thanks to the lack of integrity of a "reliable" source, the Wilmington Advertiser reported there were 33 waivers granted. This could mean 33 students each received a waiver in one sport or as few as 11 or 12 received waivers in multiple sports. Why didn't they participate in the fundraiser? Maybe they were helping out at home while a parent worked. Whatever the case, this is all confidential information that has not been provided to the school committee. Mr. Jackson himself stated "It's none of our business," a commendable stance, but one he either can't or won't enforce across his board.

I am unclear from your editorial if you feel no one should speak out at school board meetings, or if it's just me you object to. I do know that if the board itself had the courage to address the actions and statements of its own members, the public would not have to. My position has always been one of response, and I resent your statement that I "look for things to be angry about." The school committee has to stop sitting in silence while the same one or two board members berate and criticize the same few school administrators over and over. This negative self serving minority viewpoint has dominated the committee for too many years. And the solution is so very simple: Move on!

While my husband and I are very enthusiastic supporters of many things in the school system, and have participated in children's activities on a volunteer basis for many years, we have a right as parents to speak up when we believe our children - or anyone's children are being compromised, especially by a member of their own school committee. I'm sorry you don't agree.

Woburn Marine on USS Maine moved to Wilmington after the war

by Capt. Larz Neilson
That was the battle cry of the people of the United States 95 years ago, as Massachusetts volunteers marched to Fitchburg to enlist in the U.S. Army, and a man named Teddy Roosevelt readied a bunch of cowboy volunteers, who were to earn the name of Rough Riders.

An article in the Sunday Globe on August 1 described the ventilator cowl of the USS Maine, to be seen on Woburn Common, 95 years after that ship was sunk by an explosion in the harbor of Havana, Cuba. That ventilator cowl is to be seen, straight ahead, as one drives down Main Street, from Wilmington.

It is on the northwest corner of Woburn common, and there is pride in the hearts of the residents of that city about that ventilator, even though no one from Woburn lost his life on that ship.

That ventilator is described as being made of copper, and weighing 315 pounds.

Fourteen years after the ship was sunk, in 1898, it was raised by the United States government, for a ceremonial burial at sea, in the Gulf of Mexico. A number of souvenirs from that ship were saved, for distribution to patriotic societies. A group of Woburn residents, led by a druggist named Arthur Whichter, sent away for that piece of "history."

A Woburn Marine was serving on the USS Maine, when she left New York Harbor for the port of Havana, Cuba, with a stop over planned for the port of Norfolk.

That Marine was named Claude Thompson, born in Woburn in March 1876. Thompson is a proud Woburn name, dating back to Charlestown about 1619. But Claude's parents were new arrivals, coming from New Brunswick.

Shore leave was granted to some of the seamen, and some of the Marines of the USS Maine, while that ship was in Norfolk. Claude and two or three other Marines were arrested by the local police for the heinous crime of having had too much liquid cheer.

The USS Maine sailed without them. They didn't have the misfortune of being on that ship when it blew up.

Claude, in later years married a Woburn girl, a lady who had been born in Wilmington and whose father owned a farm.

That farm turned out to be a well known institution of Wilmington.

Streetcars from Everett, through property, and Florence Thompson started a picnic area, which became Thompson's Grove.

Thompson's Grove became a prosperous place for business. There were picnics there nearly every weekend, all summer long. There was an open air dance hall, for dances on Friday and Saturday evenings. It was described, rightly or wrongly, as the biggest in New England.

And every Sunday there were masses in that hall.

Thompson's Grove, was sold about 25 years ago. It became the site for St. Dorothy's Church.

Was Robert Gould Shaw ever in Wilmington?

by Capt. Larz Neilson
In Wilmington, the Old East School stands on Woburn Street, at the corner of Federal Street. It is the second school of its name and was constructed sometime before the Civil War. Among the persons who have taught in that school were Henrietta Swain, of the Swain Sisters, and Abbie F. Sheldon, granddaughter of Wilmington's Asa Sheldon, and mother of the present Edmund F. Sargent of Woburn Street.

Robert Gould Shaw was reported to have been a teacher in that school, in 1859 or 1860. Son of Francis George Shaw, a member of a family of well known Abolitionists, he was named for his grandfather, and grew up in Roxbury, with other Abolitionists at the "Brook Farm."

Robert Gould Shaw was a member of the Class of 1860 at Harvard University, but did not graduate with his class. His name was entered at a later date, possibly after his death in the Civil War.

The fact that he taught in the East School can be doubted. It is a very old tradition in Wilmington.

Born October 10, 1837, he was a prominent soldier in 1863, when the United States began to recruit black soldiers. The first regiment was the 54th Massachusetts. There were 600 black men in that regiment, two of whom were sons of Frederick Douglas, a prominent black abolitionist. Both, it is to be believed, survived the Civil War.

Robert Gould Shaw was named to command the 54th Massachusetts.

On July 18, 1863, the 600 men of the 54th Massachusetts assaulted Fort Wagner near Charleston, South Carolina. Fort Wagner was a Confederate position of considerable strength. More than 40 percent of the regiment were killed in that assault. One prominent soldier was Sergeant William Carney, who seized the colors from the color bearer when he fell, and lived to survive bullets in the head, chest, right arm and leg.

Carney was the first black soldier to win the Congressional Medal of Honor during the Civil War.

"It is not too much to say that if the Massachusetts 54th had faltered" said the New York Daily Tribune, "two hundred thousand troops for whom it was a pioneer would never have put into the field...but it did not falter. It made Fort Wagner such a name for the colored race as Bunker Hill has been for 90 years, to the 'white Yankees.'"

Colonel Shaw was among the dead. The Confederates stripped his body, and then threw it into a ditch with those of his men. Shaw's father spoke to the press.

The poor benighted wretches thought they were heaping indignities upon his dead body - they buried him with his brave, devoted followers who fell dead over him and around him...We can imagine no holier place than that in which he is, nor wish him better company...what a bodyguard he has!

On Beacon Street, in Boston, opposite the State House is a monument to the 54th Massachusetts. Designed by Augustus Saint-Simons, it was erected in 1897.

The Colonel is on horseback, and his right hand with sword is extended. Many thousands of persons have, over the years, "shaken hands" with Robert Gould Shaw. Small as that hand is, it can be described as the brightest thing on Beacon Street.

The biography of Robert Gould Shaw by Peter Burchard, in the public library of Wilmington says nothing of his having taught in Wilmington. As has been shown, Henrietta Swain was a teacher in that school, and she and her sister Caroline were both teachers of this writer, back in the 1920s. A "Historic Sketch" of Wilmington, printed in 1930, by a committee of which Harry Deming was chairman, also says nothing.

This writer has no doubts but that he was somehow informed of Shaw having been a teacher while he was still in the Wilmington schools. It was those memories which inspired the writing of this story.

Inspector Harvey got his man

The August 15, 1968 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Rep. Fred Cain appeared before the board of selectmen on the invitation of Chairman George Boylen to tell of his work in getting money for new bridges in Wilmington. Reactions were mixed with George Boylen enthusiastic; Jim Miceli skeptical; Mrs. Drew skeptical but pragmatic and Jim Banda cautiously in favor.

According to Nosey Nancy, Mancini's opened the restaurant next to McNamara Tire and placed an add in the Town Crier for 50 cents off any pizza purchased Friday or Saturday Aug. 16 and 17.

Also according to Nancy, Joe Gallagher of Muese Avenue graduated from Austin Prep and was a cadet at West Point.

Inspector John Harvey of the police department, after a long, arduous investigation nabbed his man just as he was released from jail in Camden, N.J. after serving a sentence there.

Briefly: The subject, Rafter was sought in several states since Oct. of '66, for conducting a scam in which he wrote phony checks for expensive home appliances and ordered them delivered to a rented house on Dell Drive. When the rubber checks were discovered, officials found the house empty.

It took a while, but "Harvey got his man."

Smithcraft, just moved in on Industrial Way advertised, "High neighbor;" we're looking for a list of job openings followed.

One could "grow with Compugraphic; fill first or second shift packer positions at Diamond Crystal Salt Company; or perhaps become a waitress, cashier or grill person at Pewter Pot Muffin House.

Sunnyhurst Farm, Lowell Street, was offering lunches and dinners for 99 cents.

Lucci's Market advertised U.S. choice heavy steer cube steak, 99 cents a pound; native corn, 69 cents a dozen and Geisha white meat tune, four cans for $1.

At Elia's one could purchase spare ribs at 59 cents a pound; hamburger rolls, 39 cents a dozen and seedless grapes, 19 cents a pound.

10 years ago Wilmington

Dan Stewart named lieutenant

The August 17, 1983 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Carol Sager told the school committee that the asbestos work on all schools should be completed by the end of the week and would not in any way interfere with the opening of school.

Dan Stewart was named acting lieutenant of the fire department by Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski.

Erika Skantz of Strout Avenue was named to the dean's list at Suffolk University where she was a sophomore.

Altron and the WRA agreed on the sale and purchase of 3.25 acres of land along Jewell Drive. The price to Altron was $30,000 and papers would be passed August 29.

Ten years ago In Tewksbury

The August 17, 1983 edition of the Town Crier of Tewksbury noted that:

Lowell and Tewksbury officials were reviewing a proposed water purchase contract that could see Tewksbury buying 800,000 to 1.3 million gallons of Lowell water a day over the next 10 years at a starting rate of $990 per million.

St. William's Parishioners were pictured holding a candlelight procession in celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Oblate Fathers.

The Little League Red Sox rolled to a record setting sixth consecutive championship with 20 straight wins.

Aubut's Liquors' Steve Deveau and Coach Dave Beattie were pictured arguing their case with the umpire after he called Paul Ducharme out on an attempted bunt, during a Monday night softball game.

The school committee was considering leasing the Ella Fleming School which had been closed for two years. Two women had expressed an interest in using the building to house an after school and day care center.

She's Miss Hampton Beach 1993

By KEN MAGUIRE

The first thoughts that pop into someone's head when they think about a beauty pageant winner probably fall into any or all of the following categories: attractive; not a rocket scientist; probably blonde; wants to save the world; and "really, really" wants to work with needy children.

Some people are under the impression that the only thing holding up the crown on the winner's head is strong hair spray, because there is nothing solid between the ears.

Julene Britt is proving people wrong.

A 21-year-old Woburn native and Boston College senior, Julene two weeks ago was crowned Miss Hampton Beach 1993. She will use her $500 prize money to buy books - not hair-spray - for school, where she maintains a 3.3 grade point average while double-majoring in English and Communications.

When she isn't studying, Britt is busy interning at WCVB-TV Channel 5 in Boston, where she works in the production and newsrooms alongside broadcasters Jim Boyd and Susan Warnick. She wants to land a position in the broadcasting field next year when she graduates, but if that doesn't work out, graduate school is a strong possibility.

With credentials like those, you might expect to see Julene Britt on Jeopardy - not on stage in the Club Casino at Hampton Beach. But that's where she beat out 28 other young women for the title. She keeps in mind, however, that contests are not to be taken too seriously.

"I do this for fun," Julene said this weekend from her parent's living room. "It's not my life and I don't want people to get that impression. I think of it as a sport. But I know a lot of people take it very seriously."

She said the contestants in last year's Miss Massachusetts, in which she placed second runner-up, were very determined and intent on winning. It was her second pageant (her first was last year's Hampton Beach show) and she plans on entering again this year, in November. But there will be no brooding if she loses.

"I can't do this forever," she said. "I have other things to do. It's good for one year (if you win), but after that you can't make a career out of it."

Speaking of careers, Julene has several paths in mind. Television is her long-term goal, but public relations is a possibility and teaching is not completely out of the question. While she does not take pageants too seriously, she realizes there are some definite benefits, in particular - making connections.

During last year's Hampton Beach contest, she met a Channel 5 official who informed her of the internship. And with the school year approaching, she is hoping to land another intern slot for the fall semester. But the possibilities do not end there. Being in the Hampton contests have allowed her to make connections north of the border, which may prove fruitful after graduation.

"If I have to work at some place in Orono, Maine, at least I'll be doing what I want to do," she said. "I'm not in it for the money. I'd like to stay here, but if I have to go somewhere else to find a job (in television) that's fine."

But with the good comes the bad, which she is well aware of. Men may love a beauty pageant of any sort, but as Julene has learned, some women do not always take so kindly to them.

"There are some girls at B.C.

who just don't like me," she said. "They think it's degrading."

While Julene admits that she is not exactly thrilled with the swim suit portion of some pageants, on the whole, she defends the contests.

"I don't think it's degrading," she said. "The thing that doesn't make it degrading is the interview. I believe in equal rights, but I believe there's such a thing as going overboard."

Britt said that when she goes on job interviews, the fact that she was in a few pageants does not land her the job. "No one knows what you are until you open your mouth. You have to prove how smart you are."

During pageant interviews is where the contest is won or lost, because she said there comes a point when the finalists are all very attractive, which makes it impossible to choose.

"The top five are all pretty," Julene explained. "You can't just look and pick one. They use the interviews to pick whose best."

She said the judges vary with WOBURN'S JULENE BRITT, a Boston College senior, is Miss Hampton Beach 1993. She is proving that brains and beauty work well together.

There was one important reason why long-time Reading physician Thomas J. Hirschfeld, M.D. decided to relocate to the newly built and beautifully appointed Reading Health Center. "It's the opportunity to give my patients a better facility in which to be seen," says Dr. Hirschfeld, a board certified Internal Medicine physician affiliated with Winchester Hospital. "With the availability of a broad spectrum of specialists in all fields, the Reading Health Center offers comprehensive health care under one roof."

Situated on over four attractively landscaped acres, this state-of-the-art new facility provides a comfortable and patient friendly environment. In his new location, Dr. Hirschfeld will have access to an on-site diagnostic center with laboratory and general radiography services. The Center allows parking for 195 cars, making it convenient for patients.

"I've been in Reading for 25 years," notes Dr. Hirschfeld. "In some cases, I've got to know three and four generations of Reading residents. Relocating to the new Reading Health Center gives me the opportunity to continue being involved with the delivery of good quality medical care in the Reading community. It's been very gratifying for me."

Dr. Hirschfeld completed a residency in gastroenterology at Boston VA Hospital in 1967 and a residency in Internal Medicine at Boston City Hospital in 1966 and at Boston VA Hospital in 1965. He completed his internship at King County Hospital in 1964 and received his medical degree from Tufts University School of Medicine in 1963.

His clinical interests include general issues of health involving adult patients as well as gastroenterology. He is currently looking for an associate and accepting new patients. Dr. Hirschfeld may be reached at (617) 944-7655.

The Reading Health Center is a planned medical office condominium project developed by Winchester Healthcare Management, Inc., the parent corporation of Winchester Hospital. To date, the Reading Health Center is 50 percent occupied. Suites have been leased or purchased by occupants who practice internal medicine, obstetrics and gynecology and physical therapy. Vidbel's Circus comes to Reading Vidbel's Olde Tyme Circus is coming to Reading on Thursday, August 19 under the sponsorship of the Reading Rotary Club. The red and white Big Top will present two family entertainment shows at 6 and 8:15 p.m. near the Hawkes Field House at Reading High on Birch Meadow Drive.

A special community service that the circus offers is a free comedy magic and juggling Circus Preview that can be seen at the Reading Public Library at 3 p.m. on Tuesday, August 17. Children of all ages are invited to attend this half hour family entertainment performance.

Sharing his talents throughout the east coast, Russia, Finland, Denmark, Estonia and Sweden, Scott Ertl will bring his finely honed performance to Reading. Audiences appreciate his simple, yet insightful, art of combining entertainment with teaching cooperation.

When asked how long he's been in the entertainment field, Scott replied, "Oh, about 28 silly-years which translates into eight human years. Coming from a family abundant in using and appreciating clean humor, it was natural for Scott to desire a career using comedy entertainment. "I always wanted to be a brain surgeon, but I can't since I neither have the brains nor patients' for it!"

Scott Ertl will also be surprising campers at the Recreation Summer Camp and the Reading YMCA Summer Camp.

Tickets will be on sale for $5 at Winslow's, Johnson's Hardware, Fabric Town, Reading Public Library and the YMCA. Call (617) 944-7989 for more information.

About the Towns

By PHYLLIS NISSEN
WILMINGTON RIDES ITSELF OF WHITE TRASH - Thanks to the contract with Allied Cartage, Inc. of Woburn, Wilmington residents can throw away - at no cost to themselves - unwanted white appliances, such as refrigerators, stoves, washers, etc.

Allied Cartage is now responsible for removing and disposing of those items according to federal guidelines - such as freon removal - which are often the responsibility of residents. In most communities, according to Wilmington Assistant Town Manager Jeff Hull in the "Town Crier," the homeowner bears this burden, economically and logistically.

Wilmington residents have only to arrange curbside collection with the Department of Public Works as late as 4 p.m. on Thursdays for the weekly Friday pickup. The number is (508) 658-4481 - and doors should be removed "or rendered inoperable" from all appliances before they are set out for disposal.

MALDEN POLITICIAN SURPRISES EVERYONE - In what is being called "one of the biggest political surprises this year," according to the "Malden Daily News," City Councilor-At-Large John "Jack" Glynn has announced he will not seek reelection this fall.

A 20-year Council veteran - and before that, a four-year School Committee member - Glynn is the second incumbent to pull out this year, following City Council President Kathy Gardner-Gill.

Glynn intends to spend more time in the family accounting business, leaving City Councilor Arthur P. Boyle the only at-large incumbent still in the race.

'HOMELESS ANIMAL'S DAY AUGUST 21

On Saturday, August 21, hundreds of animal welfare organizations and animal control agencies throughout the United States will observe Homeless Animals' Day.

The day will be observed with Candlelight Vigils. The purpose is to shed light on the cause and effect of dog and cat overpopulation.

From 12 to 17 million healthy animals are killed each year in shelters and pounds because of overpopulation. The problem and the killing can be stopped when owners have their dogs and cats spayed and neutered to prevent reproduction.

The problem of overpopulation of dogs and cats takes a toll of animal lives. Moreover it calls for the astronomical expenditure of public tax money and private philanthropy to "process" (rescue, shelter, feed, water, kill and dispose of the bodies of) the animals.

WEDNESDAY/THURSDAY, AUGUST 11, 12, 1993-PAGE S-5

spans many cultures and periods of history, but is delivered with a contemporary and original flavor. This event is sponsored by O'Connor School Portraits and Associates.

Boarding House Park performances are presented by the University of Massachusetts Lowell Center for the Arts through a cooperative agreement with the Lowell Historic Preservation Commission.

AUGUST 16TH DEADLINE FOR EXTENSION FILERS

Time is running out for those taxpayers who filed a Form 4868, "Extension of Time to File" on April 15th.

"More than 122,000 Massachusetts taxpayers have until midnight, August 16th to file their returns and pay the balance due," said Gerard R. Esposito, Boston IRS District Director.

Anyone who cannot pay the taxes owed by the due date, file a return anyway and attach Form 9465, "Installment Agreement Request." This form allows persons to request a monthly payment plan and specify the amounts able to pay each month.

Failure to file tax returns can result in severe penalties. The failure to file penalty is five percent per month of the balance due on the return, not to exceed 25 percent.

STONEHAM PRINCIPALS PLAN TEAM EFFORT - Stoneham Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Hoyt has named Maureen Soley the new principal of Stoneham's Robin Hood School and Nancy Peterson the new principal of Central School and its more than 600 students. According to the "Stoneham Independent," both Soley and Peterson have already "indicated a desire to pick each other's minds" and to involve Colonial Park-South School Principal Paula Sline in the process.

A 22-year veteran of the Stoneham school system and a Stoneham resident, Soley is currently a first grade teacher at Central. Peterson, a Reading resident, is an assistant principal in Gloucester.

Under the recent Education Reform Act, Hoyt was solely responsible for the appointments but did involve the School Committee in the interviewing and selection process.

The School Committee has approved the following salary

BURLINGTON HIGH ESTABLISHES NEW TRADITION - The Burlington Alumni Association is accepting nominations this month for the new Burlington High School Hall of Fame which will hold its first induction during Alumni Week, November 24-28.

For more information, contact Wayne Young at (508) 689-3259.

READING TEENS BENEFIT FROM FEDERAL FUNDING - Sixteen Reading High students are working for various town departments this summer, thanks to the federally funded Employment Resources Incorporated, a summer youth employment and training program designed to provide disadvantaged youth with valuable supervised summer experience while promoting the transition back to school, training or employment and the development of basic work, vocational and life skills, according to the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

The teens are working in Town Hall and for the Conservation Administrator, Department of Public Works, Highway Department, Cemetery Department, and Parks Department.

Designed to serve mostly 14- and 15-year-olds in 20 towns north of Boston, the program costs the town nothing - and came to town thanks to Town Clerk Cathy Quimby who applied to ERI for the program and is now the Reading coordinator.

WINCHESTER CREATES NEW POSITION - At the suggestion of high school principal John Ritchie, the Winchester School Committee has unanimously approved a plan to hire a part-time counselor and to discontinue a contract for similar services with Choate Health Systems, Inc.

The department had been spending $20,000 for the contract with Choate which provided counselors at irregular hours from outside the school community. For the same money, Ritchie suggested a part-time, in-house counselor be hired. According to the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle," Choate administrators are willing to help Winchester personnel screen candidates for that position.

A job description is expected to appear shortly.

Meanwhile, Thomas Budrewicz, Winchester Assistant Superintendent for Personnel and Management, reports that eight vacant positions were filled in July; and August is being spent looking for a principal for the Muraco School; two high school teachers; plus an art instructor, two counselors, and several instructional aides for the elementary schools.

At least 50 applications have been received for the Muraco vacancy.

Tsubumskie Trio in Wakefield

MEMBERS OF THE TSUBUMSKIE TRIO who will appear in Wakefield on Friday, August 13, are: Lisa Kempskie (violin), Juanita Tsu (Piano) and John Bumstead (cello), performing at the First Parish Congregational Church at 8 p.m.

(Photo by Don Young)

On Friday, August 13, at 8 p.m., the Tsubumskie Trio will be performing at the First Parish Congregational Church in Wakefield. Established in 1988, the piano trio consists of Lisa Kempskie on violin, John Bumstead playing the cello and Juanita Tsu on Piano.

Ms. Kempskie is an honors graduate of the University of Massachusetts at Lowell; Mr. Bumstead is a 1983 graduate of Wakefield High School and recently finished a Master degree in cello performance at UMass, Lowell; Ms. Tsu graduated from the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore, received her Masters from the New England Conservatory, and has been teaching for many years at UMass, Lowell. All three are teachers and busy freelance musicians.

The recital will consist of three dances by Peter Martin, the Haydn Trio in C major, and the Mendelssohn Trio in d minor. There is no charge for the performance, and there will be a free-will offering at the door. For more information call (508) 356-2752.

Butterfly program for children

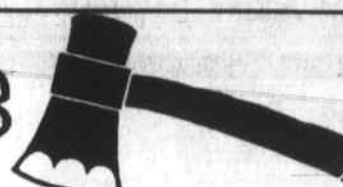

Massachusetts Audubon Society is offering a program on butterflies for children ages 8-10 on Saturday, August 14, from 1 to 3 p.m. at Mass. Audubon's Endicott Regional Center in Wrentham.

Through games, demonstrations and hands-on activities, children will explore butterfly life stories and special adaptations. We'll take a walk to observe these beautiful insects close-up, and end with an art activity.

Pre-registration is required. Fee: $10 ($8/Massachusetts Audubon members). For more information-or to register, call the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary at (508) 887-9264.

ANTHONY MANCONI

My late Uncle John Shea, from County Mayo, Ireland, told me the reason so many young men in Ireland don't get married. Uncle John said, "After drinking Guinesses Stout, most of them see double and stay single."

"The Quiet Man" is one of my favorite movies. It starred an almost all Irish cast with John Wayne, the redheaded "bombshell" Maureen O'Hara, Barry Fitzgerald, Ward Bond, Victor McLagien, Director John Houston and many other fine actors and actresses. The fight in the movie between John Wayne and Victor McLagien is, in my estimation, as great as the championship bout between John L. Sullivan and Gentleman Jim Corbett... Uncle John told me the common expression on the piers and docks of Charlestown was "Is this a private fight or can I join in?"

Kathy tells her garden club members that our marriage was for "better or worse" - I couldn't have done any better and she couldn't have done any worse...I must tell you folks, 35 years married and I'm still in love with the same woman - if Kathy ever finds out she'll kill me!

She's a lousy cook. I came home from the newspaper office and found her in tears. "I cooked you a fish dinner and the cat ate it," she said between sobs. "Don't cry another minute, dear," I said, "I can always get you another cat!"...I don't know why she cooks carrots and peas in the same pot... Woody Guthrie said, "As through this world I ramble, I see lots of funny men. Some rob you with a six-gun, some with a fountain pen." So folks, before you sign any contract, remember that the large print gives you something. The small, eyestraining words take something away from you.

I think a local fence company is on strike. I saw "pickets" all around the place this morning. I'll keep you "posted," folks... I know why Spence Farm is a successful business. It's because of the personalized service given to all customers. I remember the late Robert Spence along with Farm Stand Manager Jackie Young, taking time out of a busy schedule to help solve a problem I had with my tomato plants. Bud Spence, Judy Kennedy, Heman Graham, Tom Spence, Bill Carlson and Buzz Spence,

Woodchips knows you are all the "Greatest."

MOVIES

by Rochelle Flynn — "The Fugitive" "The Meteor Man"

"The Fugitive" Starring Harrison Ford, Tommy Lee Jones, Sela Ward, Joe Pantoliano, Jeroen Krabbe. Directed by Andrew Davis. Screenplay by Jeb Stuart, David Twohy. Produced by Arnold Kopelson. Rated PG-13.

For all the brouhaha over this sleeper or that blockbuster, THE movie to see this summer is "The Fugitive." It's an engrossing, edge-of-your-seat, heart-pumper of a flick that has some of the best action and chase scenes ever captured on film.

Just get used to the adrenaline rush, because the action never stops. And you don't want it to. In this update of the popular TV series, Harrison Ford plays Dr. Richard Kimbel, a celebrated surgeon arrested for the brutal murder of his wife (Sela Ward). Thanks to a dazzling bus accident while en route to death row, a convicted Kimbel manages to escape.

Smarter than the Chicago police who ignored his emphatic insistence that a one-armed stranger killed his wife, Kimbel decides to go after the bad guy himself. Using a canny imagination the police lacked, Kimbel is extremely proactive and not just reacting to his own fear. But U.S. Marshall Sam Gerard, played with unending appeal by Tommy Lee Jones, is every bit as clever and tenacious as Kimbel. Whether Kimbel is guilty or not is of no concern to Gerard. He plans to bring his man back to prison and he knows he can do it.

The fun part is we know Gerard can do it, and so does Kimbel. Kimbel and Gerard are equal adversaries, so Kimbel knows he's working on borrowed time as he mounts his own investigation. Though the pace is fast and the stunts eye popping, these two are such seasoned actors they are able to reveal their characters' personalities and foibles. We see the men behind the actions via mytable expressions and brief scenes most actors could never master.

Andrew Davis' direction is an intriguing blend of artsy flashbacks and slick action scenes. He never lets anything lag and you really have to pay attention to catch all the details. But you know what? It doesn't matter if you miss a few. And it doesn't matter that Kimbel and Lee sometimes just miss each by mere seconds. This movie is so damnably clever and well-made that you can't stop enjoying yourself long enough to worry about a few small points here or there.

And don't worry if you saw the series on TV, this movie will make you forget all about it.

"The Meteor Man" Starring Robert Townsend, Eddie Griffin, Marla Gibbs, Robert Guillaume, James Earl Jones. Written and directed by

From S-7 with a tool box walked into George Burns' dressing room and told George he was there to repair the hole in the wall through which the chorus girls' dressing room could be seen. George smiled and said, "Mister, if you want to fix that hole in the wall, go ahead, but NOT on my account. If the chorus girls want to look then let them look!"

Paul Travers of Burlington jogs to work every morning running alongside of a bus and saves 95 cents. Tommy Ciovacco, Jr., of Billerica jogs to work running along side a taxi and save $8.50!

Richie Travers of Peabody wears two pair of pants when he goes golfing in case he gets a "Hole in One."... When Frank Renda of Wakefield was leaving for work, his lovely wife, Priscilla, shouted to him, "I hope you don't forget what day this is." All day long Frank said to himself, "What the heck day is this anyway? Is it our anniversary? Is it her birthday? I know, I'll play it safe." So Frank, on his way home, stopped and bought a beautiful

Townsend. Produced by Loretha C. Jones. Rated PG.

He's a superhero afraid of heights, but capable of talking to dogs. A substitute teacher who at first doesn't want the mantle of superhero thrown about his quaking shoulders. He's a man used to hiding from danger, not confronting it. He's Meteor Man - America's first black superhero!

Writer/director/star Robert Townsend obviously wanted kids to have a positive black role model, so he created an African American superhero where there (shamefully) hasn't been one before. Meteor Man has fantastic powers, fights crime, and has a sense of humor. The problem is Townsend also wove an anti-drug, anti-crime, self-empowerment message into the film. All good messages, but enough to dilute the attention from our main Meteor Man.

Townsend's substitute teacher, Mr. Reed, is the kind of guy who teaches kids to run away from schoolyard bullies and tells his parents not to bother with a neighborhood crime watch. After being hit with a glowing green meteor, Reed discovers he has amazing powers. Bullets bounce from his chest.

HARRISON FORD STARS as Dr. Richard Kimbel in Warner Bros.' "The Fugitive," a contemporary action-thriller about a man's desperate attempt to prove his innocence and track down his wife's murderer.

from any book, and toss a car aside as if it were a pebble.

As there are several really boffo flicks around this summer, you may not want to make "The Meteor Man" top of the must-see list. It is, however, one of the better choices for kids and is certainly a winsome film with moments of real humor.
